The Nazis used propaganda to spread their ideology and to gain support for their regime. They used various methods, including posters, films, and radio broadcasts. They also used the press and the arts to glorify their leaders and their actions.

Propaganda for Hitler

First concentration camps for Germans (who were against Hitler)

Manipulating minds of people by blaming certain groups for problems in Germany

Chamberlain and other supporters of Hitler were responsible for the outbreak of World War II

Memorials in Poland made by Soviet Union don't mention that victims were mainly Jews

1938 nomination Nobel Peace Prize for Hitler → rise of Nazism was a soul camp

Propaganda end of war → against Jews → association

Bombing in Spain (Bilbao)

1942 work camps became extermination camps
